

Snakes Alive!

What words come to mind when you imagine a snake? Slimy? Slithery? Dangerous? Join Rick Teepen, herpetologist, for the ever-popular Snakes Alive! (a look at reptiles from God's perspective). Perhaps you have seen a snake in your own backyard and either ran away in fear or leaned in for a closer look, but most of us have never encountered one, let alone touched one. That can change when you visit the Creation Museum to see this workshop. Snakes Alive! is an interactive hands-on workshop that uses live reptiles to show God's creative hand at work in designing amazing creatures. With a dozen snakes and two lizards, Rick explains why certain animals have certain characteristics and how they fit into God's plan for the world. Bring a camera for some close encounters and an opportunity to have your own photograph posing with a live snake.
